M'CLELLAN HITS MURPHY A HARD POLITICAL BLOW

He Summarily Removes Walgrove, the Commissioner of Parks in the Borough of the Bronx, Haffen's Chief Aide.

JOSEPH I. BERRY, HIS FOE, IS APPOINTED IN HIS PLACE.

Removal Is a Direct Blow at Murphy and a Warning to Other Office Holders to Line Up for the Mayor.

Mayor McClellan put on his war paint as soon as he reached the City Hall from his long vacation to-day and chopped off the official head of Park Commissioner George M. Walgrove, of the Bronx. It was the opening lead in the Mayor's active fight with Charles F. Murphy for victory at the primaries, for Mr. Walgrove is closely identified in politics with Louis F. Haffen, President of Bronx Borough, and Eugene J. McGuire, Tammany leader of the old Thirty-fourth District, both of whom are working hard for Murphy.

The removal of Mr. Walgrove means that Mayor McClellan has given notice to his appointees that they will have to get in line for him or lose their jobs. On this point the Mayor said:

"I will remove the head of any department who uses his office against my administration."

After sending a curt letter to Commissioner Walgrove demanding his resignation Mayor McClellan issued the following formal statement:

"I have learned since my return to New York that the Park Commissioner of the Bronx has allowed his department to be misused for political purposes and against the interests of my administration. This I cannot allow. I have asked for Mr. Walgrove's resignation. I shall appoint Mr. Joseph I. Berry to the vacancy."

The reason for the blow.

That the patronage of the Department of Parks in the Bronx has been used in the interests of the Haffen Tammany candidates has been notorious ever since the opening of the primary fights. The action of the Mayor in removing Commissioner Walgrove will have a decided effect upon the primary elections in Bronx Borough. If Mr. Walgrove does not resign he will be summarily removed. Mr. Berry will be immediately installed, and the tremendous power of the Park Department will no longer respond to the pressure of Louis F. Haffen's hand.

Politicians figure that the Mayor, by his removal of Commissioner Walgrove, has pulled off considerable of a political coup and probably clinched the election of McClellan men to the three Tammany leaderships in the Bronx. Mr. Berry is the anti-Haffen and anti-Murphy candidate for the leadership of the Thirty-fifth Assembly District. Albert Glebasau is another anti-Haffen candidate, but is an open supporter of Charles F. Murphy.

Outside of the immediate effect of the Mayor's action as applied to the Bronx, the removal of Commissioner Walgrove acted like an earthquake in all the city departments. It was a confirmation of the Evening World's prediction published last Saturday that the men who have been appointed to fat positions by the Mayor must declare themselves with him or against him and show their inclinations by deeds. If they are against him they will have to go.

He Has a Little List. The Mayor has learned since he returned that some of the men he placed in paying positions have been knitting him politically, and that a majority of the others have refused to openly commit themselves as between the administration and Charles F. Murphy. A list of the names of his appointees who are either antagonists of Luke-warm was handed to the Mayor soon after his arrival, and unless there is something doing in the way of a quick declaration of position it is more than likely that other officials heads will join that of Commissioner Walgrove before many hours roll by.

It is, of course, to the interest of Charles F. Murphy, as many as possible of his adherents in controlling positions in the city departments. But the history of politics shows that between a certainty of a job for more than three years at a good salary and the uncertainty of political reward for sticking to a more or less discredited leader the holder of the job will stick to the leader and work accordingly.

Tab Has Been Kept on Them. While the Mayor was in Europe his lieutenants here kept tab on every department of the city government, and he knows about where he stands. Reports were submitted to him yesterday afternoon upon which he issued his order of removal. The Mayor is full of spirit and is ready to jump on the City Hall steps three at a time. The Mayor is full of spirit and is ready to jump on the City Hall steps three at a time. The Mayor is full of spirit and is ready to jump on the City Hall steps three at a time.

He had nothing to say about the political situation beyond the statement he had intended to keep his mouth shut.

TUG WAITED FOR A JUMPER FROM BRIDGE

Picked Him Up and Ran Away from Police Boat.

APPARENTLY UNHURT.

Dropped Feet First Into River and Swam Easily Until Rescuers Came.

RODE TO SCENE ON CAR.

Leaped to Roadway, Climbed to Rail and Dropped—Left Only His Coat Behind.

Ten minutes after a young man jumped from the centre of the Brooklyn Bridge this afternoon a little tug-boat, said to be the Coy Maid, pulled him out with a hook and raced up the East River, pursued by the police boat Patrol and four small police launches.

The man, said to be a professional bridge jumper, was not dangerously injured, as he swam a hundred feet before being picked up, but it is believed he was hurt, as the police reported that a tug had put in at the foot of Twenty-seventh street, near Bellevue Hospital and called for an ambulance.

After being dragged on to the tug the bridge jumper sprang to his feet and waved a red handkerchief to the Manhattan shore and cheered. This was seen by those on the bridge who had witnessed the leap, and they believed he had made the jump on a wager or for the purposes of publicity and that his companions were on a Manhattan pier while the little tug waited for him in midstream.

How He Avoided Police.

Conductor Martin Gibson, of the Flat-bush avenue car which took the man out to the middle of the bridge, does not think he intended to commit suicide, but believes he wanted to show he could jump from the bridge without danger.

"I was talking with him on his way out," Gibson said, "and he seemed very cheerful. We talked about the smash-up of cars at the Manhattan end of the bridge and he said if ever he was in a smash-up in the centre of the bridge he would not hesitate to jump over the side."

Before the car reached the middle of the big span the conductor went forward to recount his fares. When the car got to the middle of the span the young man, who occupied a rear seat, leaped off into the roadway for teams, slipped off his black sack coat and as he mounted the high steel girder at the south side of the bridge he looked around and saw Policeman John Scheffner, of the Bridge squad, running toward him.

The man pulled his soft black hat tightly down over his head and jumped when the officer was two feet from him.

The shouts of the passengers brought the car to a stop, and while most of the women passengers screamed the man ran to the side of the bridge and looked down at the water, 115 feet below. In his descent the man's body turned as though shot out of a twist barrel gun. He still held his hands to the brim of his hat and pulled it down over his ears. A moment after his body plunged into the water it bobbed up again like a scumming and he swam off on the flowing tide.

Tug Was Waiting.

The tug was evidently waiting for something to happen in that vicinity of many good things going over the plate brought down a large crowd to the course this afternoon. There were big fields in every event. The stakes were The Sapphire, for two-year-olds, and the Ocean Handicap, both of which had splendidly matched fields. In the Ocean Handicap alone there were twenty-one high-class horses carded. The other races promised good sport. The weather was excessively warm and the track fast.

Joe Miller Closed Strong.

Joe Miller was a hot favorite in the opening dash, with Sewell up instead of Miller. Joe Miller was away slowly, and at the head of the stretch was many lengths behind Common Sue and Commodore Anson, who were racing head and head. In the last furlong Joe Miller closed with a run and won a good race by a length and a protest. Senator Clay, who closed strong and beat Common Sue a head.

Robin Hood by a Head.

Robin Hood went to the front at the start, made all the running, finished out game, and won by a head from Fish Hawk, who was the only two-year-old in the race. Slickaway was second in the last jump, where he swung and Fish Hawk pulled him. Cloten, well backed, was off badly and had no chance.

LOUISVILLE RESULTS.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 10.—The races here to-day resulted as follows: FIRST RACE—Five-eighths of a mile. Bon Vivant (1 to 2 and 4 to 5) L. Princess Marie (1 to 1 for place) 2, Senator Warner & Time—1:24.

Mabel Carrier, Chorus Girl, Wed to D. G. Reid

In the face of repeated and explicit denials, the fact that Daniel G. Reid, conductor of the Atlantic Yacht Club and one of the most important of the group of steel millionaires, has married Mabel Carrier, a former actress, has been known to his intimates. The marriage was announced today by the Associated Press. Mr. Reid's town house, No. 875 Fifth avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Reid are out of the city on an automobile tour.

Miss Carrier is Mr. Reid's third wife, and, like his second wife, the beautiful

Thomas Russell, No. 31 Second place, Brooklyn, O. none card was written in pencil the name James J. Rooney.

Passengers on the Flatbush avenue car said the man was apparently about five feet ten inches in height and weighed about 170 pounds. He wore dark blue trousers and a black coat. He had no collar.

That the bridge jumper was Thomas Russell, of No. 31 Second place, Brooklyn, is firmly believed by his grandmother, who lives there. She says she expected he would jump from the Brooklyn Bridge before long because he had frequently spoken of his desire to do so.

He recently worked as a painter on the cables of the bridge, his grandmother said, and wanted to jump to the river then, but fellow-workmen would not let him. They reported his desire to the foreman of the painters and Urell was discharged.

He was painting the tower at Dreamland and last evening he was suddenly overtaken from half way up on the tower into the shoot-the-chutes lake and was unharmed.

Police telephones on the bridge worked quickly. The bridge jumper was hardly on board the tug when the police-boat Patrol shot out from her mooring, sailed around the end of the island and up the East River with her whistle tooting an alarm for every one to get out of the way. Several small police launches came trailing after, all in the chase for the tug.

But the latter had a fair start and was out of sight up around Cretans Park and was lost in a maze of freighters when the police armada got to the Williamsburg Bridge.

Cards Found in Coat.

In the pockets of the coat left by the man on the bridge were several business cards. One was of the W. H. Kent Co., No. 187 Spring street, and read that it was presented by E. T. Brown. There was a card on which was printed the name and address of

JEWS UNDER FIRE OF BIG GUNS FALL IN NEW MASSACRE

Hundreds Killed as Artillery Sweeps Streets in Siedlce, Poland.

TWO DAYS' SLAUGHTER.

Houses Battered Down, and Troops Join Mobs in Robbery After Murder.

FLAMES ADD TO TERROR.

City Gates Closed Again, Panic-Stricken Residents Trying to Escape.

SIEDLCE, Russian Poland, Sept. 10.—Rioting and slaughter still continued here to-day, although the troops and mobs have been fighting steadily for forty-eight hours.

The Jews, who are the principal victims, have been wantonly shot down, and the general estimate of the killed goes into the hundreds. In addition 2,000 have been injured.

Field guns have been planted at the main points in the city and early to-day principal business buildings on Peckna, Warsaw and Alena streets were bombarded and destroyed.

The ruins caught fire and the people, almost frenzied with terror, now face fire as a new menace.

Hundreds of Jews assembled to-day at the railroad station awaiting means of getting out of town, but Siedlce is surrounded by troops who do not permit exit or entrance.

The massacre surpasses all previous ones in this vicinity. It was carefully planned beforehand, the soldiers warning all of the Christian population in advance to hang out their lamps so that they might remain undisturbed. Saturday night some terrorists killed two soldiers, and thereupon the Lithuanian regiment broke forth in unrestrained fury.

They began murdering Jews on every hand and continued the work of slaughter all Saturday night and Sunday and are still firing on the people to-day. The ghastly work of murdering and pillaging continued until an early hour this morning, when Governor-General Skalon telegraphed for permission to use the artillery.

Four batteries then opened fire down Plenka, Warsaw and Alena streets, which were inhabited by thousands of Jews. The destruction was horrible.

As a result of the general slaughter it is estimated that fully 200 Jews have been killed and 2,000 wounded.

There are 2,500 prisoners in captivity, a great many of whom are wounded. Not a soldier was killed.

This morning squads of soldiers were parading through the streets selling pillaged watches and jewelry. The army officers openly contemplated the selling of loot. The local Governor, Engleke, took no steps to prevent the outrage.

Bayoneted in Streets.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 10.—The predictions made in these dispatches on Aug. 23 of a Jewish massacre at Siedlce, Russian Poland, have been verified in the fighting which broke out Saturday night, and developed yesterday into a carnival of indiscriminate slaughter and pillage, in which the soldiery and the mob took part.

Jews were shot and bayoneted in the streets of the town. Houses and shops were broken into and sacked, and valuables were carried off and offered for sale by soldiers to passengers on passing trains.

In addition to the Jews a number of Christians and even some officers met their death in the fighting. The number of victims has not yet been established, but a conservative estimate places it at 140.

The Jewish fugitives who thronged the railroad stations at Siedlce are in a state of panic. Reports received here from Warsaw and other towns in the vicinity of Siedlce place the number of victims at several hundred.

The early reports of the Siedlce massacre put the responsibility at the door of the Terrorists, but fugitives declare that the soldiers would have been allowed to get so completely out of hand without the connivance, if not the actual direction of their officers.

Many passengers were thrown out of their seats, though none was reported injured. The train filled with smoke and it was thought the cars were burning.

Passengers beat on the windows with their fists and screamed to be let out of the train. The guards held them back until it was made clear that there was no danger. Other buses followed that on the front end in burning, and this made it more difficult to restrain the panic-stricken people on the cars.

A downtown express carried a switchman with new shoes to the relief of the train and the switchman was not greatly interrupted. The switchman was not dangerously hurt.

EVANS' ALE AND OYSTERS.

MRS. OELRICHS, CUT OFF IN WILL, TO MAKE CONTEST

Last Testament of the Dead Clubman, Filed This Afternoon for Probate, Leaves Out Both His Widow and His Son.

TRIAL OF SUIT IN COURT WOULD REVEAL SCANDAL

Mrs. Oelrichs Is Now on Her Way to the Pacific Coast—No Mention in Will of Woman Who, It Is Alleged, Caused Estrangement.

The will of Herman Oelrichs, California millionaire, who died on board ship on the Atlantic Ocean, which was filed in the Probate Court this afternoon, cuts off the widow, a daughter of the late Senator Fair and sister of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and her son. It leaves the entire estate to his brother and sister.

It is understood that Mrs. Oelrichs will contest the will, and if she does so society expects to hear the inside of the scandal which has been rumored in connection with the Oelrichs.

Various reports have been circulated in Newport, New York and San Francisco society in which the name of a woman has been mentioned. It was even said that Oelrichs's will would leave his estate to this woman. It was also said that Mrs. Oelrichs would not hesitate to mention this woman in the contest she contemplates making.

Widow Cut Off.

Before the will was filed this afternoon Charles M. Oelrichs informed The Evening World that Mrs. Oelrichs, who is on her way to San Francisco, had been cut off by her husband and was not mentioned in his brother's will. Mrs. Oelrichs further said that the fifteen-year-old son of his brother would receive but a small bequest.

Mr. Oelrichs, upon reaching his brokerage office, No. 44 Exchange place, immediately got into communication with Jay & Candler, lawyers, at No. 45 Wall street, and William Jay married a sister of Mr. Herman Oelrichs. In the absence of Col. Jay, who is travelling in Europe, and not expected home before October, Mr. Oelrichs, upon arriving at the law office, went into consultation with Flammery E. and Robert W. Candler, Col. Jay's partners.

"I am the sole executor of my brother's will, and if there was any woman, beneficiary other than blood relatives I would certainly know of it," said Mr. Oelrichs, in response to a question whether any part of the estate had been left to a person who has been named in connection with the reasons for the split separation between Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs.

"The report that my brother either left by his will or secretly gave a large sum to this unnamed woman is a base lie, which I am trying to run down," said Mr. Oelrichs, to the Evening World.

"Has Mrs. Oelrichs been cut off?" was asked pointedly.

"That question will be answered when the will shall be offered for probate and becomes public property," was his prompt reply.

Bequest to Son Small.

"And their son, is he named in the will?" was questioned.

"The boy is named," said Mr. Oelrichs, "but his portion is not as great as was expected. He is a person who has been dependent upon what was left to him by his father. The son will be an enormous help to his father in his right, independent of what his father might have given him."

"I am sure his mother's estate" was asked.

"Yes," said Mr. Oelrichs, "there is a fortune of $500,000—Mrs. Oelrichs' leave."

"Not nearly as great a fortune as the papers have been the case had he been dependent upon what was left to him by his father. The son will be an enormous help to his father in his right, independent of what his father might have given him."

He Denies Contest. "Nothing of the kind," said Mr. Oelrichs, who, great show a emphasis. "My sister-in-law had planned the Western trip before her husband's death. She goes to California on business of her own in connection with the estate. To infer from this trip that she intends to contest the will is absurd. At any rate if there was to be a contest it would be brought in New York and not in California, which circumstances of itself ought to dispose of this absurd construction put upon Mrs. Oelrichs' departure."

However, the blood relatives of the late Herman Oelrichs are greatly worried over the trip, and The Evening World has information from a source very near to the widow that she did not intend to go to California at all up to a very few days ago.
